SkillNavora Academy · Chapter 5 of 19

Conversion Copywriting

Study guide, prompt library, templates, examples and workbook for beginners and freelancers

Written by Varun, for SkillNavora · Draft

Official site: www.skillnavora.in

Tool limits, plans and claims were not verified against live pages. Confirm them before acting.

CHAPTER 5 OF 19

Conversion Copywriting

Write words that get people to act: clear, true, and in your customer's own voice. Written by Varun for SkillNavora.

Core learning objective

Write clear, persuasive copy for headlines, pages, emails and ads, starting from an AI draft you check and improve.

Four pillars

Pillar	What you do
Understand	What copywriting is, AIDA, features and benefits.
Implement	Write headlines, body copy and CTAs with the templates.
Optimise	Check length, clarity and honesty. Test variations.
Apply	The 25 headlines assignment and the copy submission.

Tools and resources (official sites, not checked live)

Tool	Use in this chapter	Link
OpenAI Playground	Draft text (lecture 5.1)	platform.openai.com/playground
Google Gemini	Draft text (lecture 5.1)	gemini.google.com
Claude	Draft and edit text (lecture 5.1)	claude.ai
Unsplash	Licensed photos for headlines	unsplash.com
Pexels	Free photos and clips	www.pexels.com
StockSnap.io	Free photos	stocksnap.io
Google Search Central	How search shows titles and snippets	developers.google.com/search/docs
Google Ads Help	Ad headline and description limits	support.google.com/google-ads

Contents

1. Lecture 5.1: Write faster with AI
2. Lecture 5.2: What is copywriting?
3. Lecture 5.3: The AIDA formula
4. Lecture 5.4: Eleven headline rules
5. Lecture 5.5: Features into benefits
6. Lecture 5.6: Five CTA rules
7. Lecture 5.7: Write like your customers talk
8. Lecture 5.8: Assignment: 25 headlines
9. Prompt library
10. Before and after

1. Copy templates
2. Workbook and submission
3. Glossary

HOW THIS GUIDE WAS CHECKED

The live AI tool pages, ad platforms and third-party tools could not be opened from the workspace used to write this. Figures, testimonials and endorsements quoted in the course are examples. Check each claim before you publish.

LECTURE 5.1 · UNDERSTAND AND APPLY

Write faster with AI (and edit it well)

Start from a draft, not a blank page. Editing a good first draft is faster than writing from scratch.

Pillars: Understand · Apply

Why this works

Copywriters rarely start from nothing. A structured first draft gives you the shape, and your job is to make it specific, true and in your customer's words.

Five prompt workflows

Format	Example prompt	How to refine
Beginner blog post	Write a blog post about email marketing for beginners.	Add numbered headings. Add your customers' own words. Check every fact.
Social thread	Write a short thread about the main things to check when buying a domain name.	Hook in the first post. Link in the last. Check each claim.
Customer review reply	Write a calm, polite reply to this review: [paste review]	Name the issue. Say what you will do. Never argue.
Cold outreach email	Write a short cold email offering web development help to a business owner.	Make line 1 about their site. Offer one low-risk next step.
Workplace email	Write a short, polite email to my manager about [situation].	Keep it honest and brief. Add dates and the next step.

VERIFY FIRST

The course gives tool names (OpenAI Playground, Google Gemini, Claude). Check each tool's current free plan and terms on its own site.

WATCH OUT

Never send AI text without reading it. Check facts, names, prices and promises. Do not ask an AI to write a message that misleads someone.

Common mistakes

- Publishing the first draft unchanged.
- Letting the AI invent statistics or quotes.

KNOWLEDGE CHECK

1. Why edit a draft instead of starting blank?
   Answer: It is faster and gives you a shape to improve.
2. What must you check in AI text?
   Answer: Facts, names, prices and promises.

Lecture completion checklist

Done	Item
☐	Five prompts tried.
☐	One draft edited and fact-checked.

LECTURE 5.2 · UNDERSTAND

What is copywriting?

Copywriting is rearranging words to make an offer sound more useful and more believable. It is salesmanship in written form.

Pillars: Understand

Use one structure for many formats: sales pages, blog posts, emails, video scripts, and ads. That structure is AIDA, covered in the next lecture.

Where copy appears

- Headlines and subject lines
- Landing pages and sales pages
- Emails and social posts
- Ads on search and social platforms
- Video scripts

KNOWLEDGE CHECK

1. What is copywriting in one sentence?
   Answer: Arranging words so an offer is clear, useful and believable.
2. Name three formats that use copy.
   Answer: Any three of: landing page, email, ad, post, script.

Lecture completion checklist

Done	Item
☐	I can explain copywriting in my own words.

LECTURE 5.3 · IMPLEMENT

The AIDA formula

AIDA stands for Attention, Interest, Desire and Action. It works for sales pages, emails, posts and ads.

Pillars: Implement · Optimise

Stage	Goal	Example (format only)
A: Attention	Answer 'What is in it for me?' in the headline or subject line	Make short videos from your phone in minutes
I: Interest	Give a fresh reason to read on in the first paragraph	Most video tools need gear. This one needs only your phone.
D: Desire	Show benefits, life change and proof	Benefit, outcome, and a result you can prove
A: Action	Tell the reader the next step, with a clear button	Start your free trial today

Step by step

1. Write the attention line first. Test three versions.
2. Write one paragraph that gives a fresh reason to keep reading.
3. Add benefits, a real outcome and one proof point you can show.
4. Finish with one clear button and the next step.

VERIFY FIRST

The course uses a mobile video app as its case study. Its numbers (for example 100 percent more engagement, 35 percent higher views, a 500,000-subscriber endorser) are examples from the course, not verified results. Do not reuse them as your own claims, and never name a person as an endorser without written permission.

WATCH OUT

Desire is built with true proof. If you have no proof yet, describe the benefit honestly and do not invent numbers.

Common mistakes

- Leaving out the Action step.
- Using a fake statistic to sound stronger.

KNOWLEDGE CHECK

1. What does AIDA's A mean at the end?
   Answer: Action: the next clear step.
2. What builds Desire honestly?
   Answer: Benefits, outcomes and proof you can show.

Lecture completion checklist

Done	Item
☐	Four AIDA stages written for one offer.

LECTURE 5.4 · APPLY

Eleven rules for magnetic headlines

David Ogilvy, a well-known advertising writer, wrote that five times as many people read the headline as read the body copy. So spend real time on headlines.

Pillars: Apply · Optimise

"On the average, five times as many people read the headline as read the body copy. When you have written your headline, you have spent eighty cents out of your dollar." (David Ogilvy). Check the exact wording in his published book before you quote it.

No.	Rule	Pattern to copy
1	Start with a number	[Number] [things] [outcome]
2	How-to, even if or without	How to [result] even if [obstacle]
3	Flag common mistakes	[Number] mistakes you may be making with [topic]
4	Ask an engaging question	Are you making [common mistake]?
5	Use a colon for keywords	[Target keyword]: [benefit in 5 steps]
6	Be ultra-specific	Bad: Write a song. Better: Songwriting basics: write your first song
7	Use the 5 Ws	Who, what, when, where or why, in one line
8	Keep SEO titles about 50 to 60 characters	Count the characters before you publish
9	Pair with a relevant picture	Choose a licensed photo that matches the promise
10	Study the best in your field	Note the pattern, not the wording
11	Write 10 to 25 variations	Keep the best three and test them

Check the length in a spreadsheet

A tool called the 25 Headlines tool is named in the course. It is a third-party GitHub project, so check it before you use it. A plain spreadsheet works too: put headlines in column A and type `=LEN(A2)` in column B. Aim for about 50 to 60 characters.

VERIFY FIRST

Search engines decide how many characters they show, and this can change. Treat 50 to 60 characters as a guide. Picture licences differ, so check each photo's licence on its source site.

Common mistakes

- Writing one headline and stopping.
- Writing a headline longer than the search result shows.
- Using a picture that does not match the promise.

KNOWLEDGE CHECK

1. Why write 10 to 25 headlines?
   Answer: To find a better one than your first idea.
2. What is a good SEO title length?
   Answer: About 50 to 60 characters, as a guide.

Lecture completion checklist

Done	Item
☐	Ten to 25 headlines written.
☐	Lengths checked.
☐	Best three chosen and tested.

LECTURE 5.5 · IMPLEMENT

Features into benefits: the So What? test

Features tell, but benefits sell. A feature is what the product has. A benefit is what the customer gets.

Pillars: Implement · Apply

Keep asking 'So what?' until you reach the result a real person wants.

Product	Feature	So what?	Benefit
Music player	1 GB of storage	How many songs does that mean?	Room for a whole library in your pocket
Hair product	Contains a named ingredient	What does it do for hair?	Hair that looks healthy and is easy to style
Travel backpack	Has a built-in rain cover	Why does that matter on a trip?	Your things stay dry in heavy rain
Fitness programme	Includes a meal plan	What does a meal plan give the user?	Clear meals, so no guessing

Your turn

Feature	So what?	Benefit

VERIFY FIRST

The examples here describe typical products. Check any real product claim against the product's own material before you publish it.

Common mistakes

- Listing specifications with no result.
- Stopping at the first 'so what' instead of the real outcome.

KNOWLEDGE CHECK

1. What is a benefit?
   Answer: What the customer gets or achieves.
2. What does the So what? test do?
   Answer: Pushes you to the real result.

Lecture completion checklist

Done	Item
☐	Three features turned into benefits.

LECTURE 5.6 · IMPLEMENT

Five rules for an irresistible call to action

The call to action (CTA) tells the reader the next step. Make it clear, easy and honest.

Pillars: Implement · Optimise

1. Put a CTA on every page and post

Decide the one next step before you write. Then make sure every page, post and email points to it.

2. Use low-friction verbs

Try, Start, Download, Subscribe, Watch, Find out, Fill out. Verbs like Try or Start often ask for less commitment than Buy. Test your own wording.

3. Add real urgency only

Use a deadline or a stock count only when it is true. A made-up 'only 3 left' or 'sale ends Friday' misleads people and can break consumer rules.

4. Make the CTA visible

Use a contrasting button, bold text, and a full visible link in emails and posts, not only 'click here'.

5. Reduce risk honestly

Good (if true)	Only if you deliver it
No credit card needed for the trial	A refund promise: you must honour it
Setup takes about 5 minutes	Check the real time before you promise it

WATCH OUT

Never promise a refund, result or time you cannot deliver. Read the consumer and advertising rules for each country you sell to.

Common mistakes

- Using a made-up deadline.
- Using a button with no contrast.
- Promising a guarantee the business will not honour.

KNOWLEDGE CHECK

1. Why use a visible full link?
   Answer: People can see where it goes and trust it more.
2. When is urgency honest?
   Answer: When it is true and checked.

Lecture completion checklist

Done	Item
☐	CTA on every page.
☐	Verb-led button written.
☐	Every urgency claim checked as true.

LECTURE 5.7 · APPLY

Write like your customers talk

The best copy uses the words your customers already use. Collect them before you write.

Pillars: Apply · Understand

Four places to collect their words

1. Survey answers: copy the exact words from questions 1 and 2 (Chapter 2).
2. Community posts: read Facebook groups, Reddit threads and comments in your niche.
3. Reviews: compare 1-star and 3-star reviews (what frustrates people) with 5-star reviews (what they value).
4. Interviews: ask 3 to 5 people short questions and write their exact words.

Build a phrase bank

Their words (verbatim)	Where you found it	Where you will use it

WATCH OUT

Use the words, not the person. Do not quote a private person, or copy a review in a way that identifies them, without permission.

Common mistakes

- Writing what you think customers say.
- Copying a competitor's review words.

KNOWLEDGE CHECK

1. Where do exact words come from?
   Answer: Your survey, communities, reviews and interviews.
2. Why keep their words?
   Answer: They sound real and make the copy easy to trust.

Lecture completion checklist

Done	Item
☐	Ten verbatim phrases collected.
☐	Phrases used in one headline and one CTA.

LECTURE 5.8 · APPLY

Chapter 5 assignment: write 25 headlines

Blog posts do not go viral because of the body. Headlines do the first job.

Pillars: Apply

1. Write 25 headline variations for your next blog post, email or video.
2. Audit your top three against the rules: a number, how-to with even if or without, 50 to 60 characters, and a matching picture.
3. Draft body copy with AIDA. Turn every feature into a benefit with the So What? test.
4. Finish with a verb-led, honest CTA and one visible link.

Submission

Item	What to send
25 headlines	A list or spreadsheet
Audit of top three	Length, rule checks and picture
Body copy	AIDA draft with the So What? table
CTA	Final button text and link

Lecture completion checklist

Done	Item
☐	25 headlines written.
☐	Top three audited.
☐	AIDA body written.
☐	CTA finished and checked.

SECTION 3 · PROMPT LIBRARY

AI copywriting prompt library

Copy a prompt, replace the [brackets], then read and check the result before you use it.

No.	Task	Prompt
1	Blog post outline	Write an outline for a beginner blog post about [topic]. Use numbered headings and one question per heading.
2	Blog intro with AIDA	Write a 3-sentence intro for [topic] using AIDA: attention, one fresh reason to read, a benefit, and a next step.
3	Headline variations	Give me 15 headlines for [topic]. Mix numbers, how-to with even if, questions, and a colon with the keyword first. Keep each under 60 characters.
4	Feature to benefit	Here is a feature: [feature]. Ask 'so what?' three times and write the final customer benefit in one sentence.
5	Landing page hero	Write a hero section for [product] for [customer]. Include a headline, a sub-headline in the customer's words, and a verb-led button.
6	Email subject lines	Write 10 subject lines for an email about [offer]. Keep each under 50 characters. No false urgency.
7	Email body	Write a short email to [audience] about [topic]. One idea, one button, and the full link visible.
8	Search ad	Write 3 search ad headlines (30 characters or less) and 2 descriptions (90 characters or less) for [service] for people searching [keyword].
9	Social ad	Write a short social ad for [product]. Start with the customer's problem, give one benefit, and end with 'Start' or 'Try'.
10	Customer review reply	Write a calm reply to this review: [review]. Thank them, name the issue, say what you will do, and offer a contact.
11	Cold email	Write a 90-word cold email to [role] at [type of business] about [service]. Line 1 must mention a real thing from their website that you checked.
12	Rewrite for clarity	Rewrite this text for a 9th grade reader. Keep every fact. Remove jargon: [text].
13	Find customer words	From these survey answers, list the exact phrases people used for their problem: [paste answers]. Do not change the words.
14	Objection handling	List 5 objections a buyer of [product] might have, and write one honest reply to each.
15	CTA options	Write 8 call-to-action buttons for [offer], each starting with a low-friction verb (try, start, download, watch).
16	Guarantee check	Review this guarantee for clarity and honesty: [text]. Flag anything the business must deliver or cannot promise.
17	Fact check list	List every factual claim in this copy as a numbered list I can verify: [copy].
18	Tone shift	Rewrite this to sound warm and calm, not pushy: [copy]. Keep the offer the same.

VERIFY FIRST

Prompts are starting points. The AI can invent facts. Read each output, check every claim, and remove anything you cannot prove.

SECTION 4 · EXAMPLES

Before and after: copy that converts

Each rewrite uses one rule from this chapter. Read the note on the right to see why.

Case	Before	After	Why it is better
Generic headline	Quality services at affordable prices for everyone.	Bookkeeping for small shops: books closed by the 5th, fixed monthly price.	Names the customer, the result and a date.
Feature list	1 GB storage. Panthenol formula. Built-in rain cover.	1,000 songs in your pocket. Beautiful hair that gets noticed. Dry gear in heavy rain.	Each feature becomes an outcome.
Weak CTA	Click here.	Start your free trial. No credit card needed.	Verb-led, visible, and honest about risk.
Vague email subject	Our newsletter for October	Three invoice mistakes that delay your payment	Specific, useful, and short.
Long SEO title	Everything you need to know about the many different kinds of email marketing tools available in today's market	Email marketing tools: 7 options for small businesses	Under 60 characters, keyword first, benefit clear.

VERIFY FIRST

The after lines are examples. Replace them with true facts about your own business before you publish.

SECTION 5 · TEMPLATES

Copy templates for each format

Fill in the blanks. Each template follows AIDA and ends with one CTA.

Website hero

[Headline: the result for [customer]]

[One line: how you get it, in their words]

[Button: Start / Try / Get a quote]

Landing page

Headline: [result]

Problem: [the pain, in their words]

Solution: [what you do, three benefits]

Proof: [one true result, or a clear example]

Offer and risk reversal: [what they get, what you promise and can deliver]

Button: [verb-led action]

Blog post

Headline: [number or how-to, under 60 characters]

Intro: [attention line, fresh reason, what they will learn]

Body: [numbered subheadings in customer words]

End: [one next step with a visible link]

Email

Subject: [specific, under 50 characters]

Preview: [the detail that completes the subject]

Body: [one idea, one story or benefit, one proof]

Button: [verb-led] and the full link

Advertisement

Search ad: headline 30 characters, description 90 characters, keyword matched

Social ad: problem, one benefit, verb-led button

VERIFY FIRST

Ad platforms set character limits and policies. Check the current limits and ad policies on each platform's help pages.

WORKBOOK

Copy workbook and submission

Fill in as you go.

A. AIDA planner

Stage	Your line
Attention
Interest
Desire (benefit and proof)
Action (CTA)

B. Headline audit

Headline	Length	Number?	Image?
		☐	☐

Submission checklist

Done	Item
☐	25 headlines written
☐	Top 3 audited
☐	AIDA body copy
☐	So What? table
☐	CTA checked and honest

REFERENCE

Copywriting glossary

Plain-English meaning and an example.

Term	Meaning and example
Copywriting	Words written to make an offer clear and persuasive. Example: a landing page.
AIDA	Attention, Interest, Desire, Action. Example: a headline, a reason to read, proof, a button.
Headline	The main title that gets attention. Example: 'Books closed by the 5th'.
Feature	What a product has or does. Example: a built-in rain cover.
Benefit	What the customer gets. Example: dry gear in heavy rain.
So what? test	Asking 'so what?' until you reach the real result.
CTA	Call to action: the next step you want. Example: 'Start your free trial'.
Risk reversal	A promise that lowers the buyer's risk. Example: a refund you actually honour.
Verbatim	The exact words a customer used.
SEO title	The page title shown in search results. Example: under about 60 characters.
Preview text	The short line after an email subject. Example: 'Fix them before month-end'.
Hook	The first line that makes someone keep reading.