SkillNavora Academy · Master Freelancing

Writing and Content

Fifteen writing professions with a shared method, samples and a tested checker

Resume · Copy · Creative · Ghostwriting · Technical · Scripts · Grants · Editing · Proofreading · SEO · UX · Newsletter · LinkedIn · Case studies · AI content editing

Department 7 of 7 · Draft · Official site: www.skillnavora.in Tool features and prices change. Official links were not checked live in this draft; confirm before publication.

Contents

1. How to use this textbook
2. Tools, checks and professional rules
3. Working with AI: help, limits and the editor's checklist
4. Before and after: how editing changes writing
5. A complete resume sample and how it was edited
6. Resume writer
7. Copywriter
8. Creative writer
9. Ghostwriter
10. Technical writer
11. Scriptwriter
12. Grant writer
13. Editor
14. Proofreader
15. SEO writer
16. UX writer
17. Newsletter writer
18. LinkedIn content writer
19. Case study writer
20. AI content editor

START HERE

How to use this textbook

Writing and content roles sell clear thinking on a page. This book gives fifteen writing professions a shared method: brief, draft, edit, check, deliver.

The five-step method

1. Brief: who reads it, what they should do, what must be included.
2. Draft: get the structure right before polishing sentences.
3. Edit: cut, reorder, simplify.
4. Check: facts, names, numbers, tone, and any rule the client set.
5. Deliver: in the format the client asked for, with a short note on what changed.

Fifteen professions

Resume writer · Copywriter · Creative writer · Ghostwriter · Technical writer · Scriptwriter · Grant writer · Editor · Proofreader · SEO writer · UX writer · Newsletter writer · LinkedIn writer · Case study writer · AI content editor. Each chapter has a portfolio project, a worked example and an assignment with an answer key.

VERIFICATION NOTE

Tool features, plans and platform rules change. Links point to official sites that were not checked live in this draft; confirm before relying on them. Samples use fictional people and companies.

PART 1 · MODULE A

Tools, checks and professional rules

Tools and rules shared by every writing role.

A1. Tools every writer uses

Tool	Use	Official link (not checked live)
Google Docs	Drafting, comments, version history	docs.google.com
Microsoft Word	Track changes for editors	microsoft.com/microsoft-365/word
Grammarly	Spelling and grammar suggestions	grammarly.com
Hemingway Editor	Readability checks	hemingwayapp.com

A2. Basic quality checks (tested code)

The checker below counts words, estimates readability, finds simple passive phrases and flags weak resume bullets. It supports your judgement; it does not replace it.

PYTHON

```
import re
def word_count(t): return len(re.findall(r"[A-Za-z0-9']+", t))
def reading_ease(t):
    """Flesch reading ease (approximate syllable count)."""
    words=re.findall(r"[A-Za-z']+", t); sents=max(1,len(re.findall(r"[.!?]+", t)))
    def syl(w):
        w=w.lower(); n=len(re.findall(r"[aeiouy]+", w))
        if w.endswith("e") and n>1: n-=1
        return max(1,n)
    s=sum(syl(w) for w in words)
    return round(206.835-1.015*(len(words)/sents)-84.6*(s/max(1,len(words))),1)
def passive_hits(t): return re.findall(r"\b(?:was|were|is|are|been|being)\s+\w+ed\b", t)
def check_resume_bullet(b):
    issues=[]
    if not re.search(r"\d", b): issues.append("no number or result")
    if re.match(r"^(responsible for|worked on|helped)", b.lower()): issues.append("weak opening") if word_count(b)>28: issues.append("too long") return issues

assert check_resume_bullet('Responsible for sales')==['no number or result','weak opening'] assert check_resume_bullet('Cut report time from 4 hours to 1 hour by building a template')==[] print('checks passed')
```

A3. Plagiarism, copyright and client confidentiality

RULES

Never copy another writer's work. Do not paste a client's private material into an AI tool the client has not approved. Credit sources, keep quotes short and attributed, and ask who owns the finished work in writing before you start. This book is not legal advice.

VERIFICATION NOTE

Tool features, plans and platform rules change. Links point to official sites that were not checked live in this draft; confirm before relying on them. Samples use fictional people and companies.

PART 1 · MODULE B

Working with AI: help, limits and the editor's checklist

Use AI as a tool; keep the responsibility.

B1. Where AI helps

AI can suggest outlines, alternatives to a weak sentence and a first rough draft. You decide what is true, what suits the client, and what is kept.

B2. Where AI fails

- It can state invented facts, quotes and sources with confidence.
- It tends towards generic phrases a reader has seen many times.
- It does not know the client's customers, rules or history unless you tell it.

B3. The AI content editor's checklist

1. Check every number, name, date and quote against a source.
2. Remove claims you cannot support (for example 'best', 'guaranteed', 'number one').
3. Replace generic openings with one specific detail.
4. Read it aloud; cut anything you would not say.
5. Record what you changed and why.

B4. Prompt library (starter)

Task	Prompt pattern
Outline	Give me an outline for a 600-word article for [reader] about [topic]. They should leave knowing [one action].
Simplify	Rewrite this paragraph at a school-year-9 reading level without losing any fact: [text]
Tighten	Cut this by 30 percent. Keep every number. List what you removed.
Resume bullet	Rewrite this bullet to start with an action verb and include the result I give: [bullet]. Do not invent numbers.
Fact check list	List every factual claim in this text as a numbered list I can verify.
Tone	Rewrite for a friendly, plain tone for [reader]. Keep the meaning identical.

Always read the output critically. Never submit AI text you have not checked.

PART 1 · MODULE C

Before and after: how editing changes writing

Short examples you can reuse as portfolio explanations.

C1. Before and after: a weak and a strong product line

Before	After
We offer high quality services at affordable prices for all your needs.	Fixed-price bookkeeping for shops with under 50 orders a day. Books closed by the 5th of each month.

The second version names the customer, the offer and a time promise. Any specific claim must be true and be able to be shown.

C2. Before and after: an email subject

Before	After
Newsletter October	Three invoice mistakes that delay your payment

C3. Before and after: an error message (UX)

Before	After
Error 402: invalid input.	That card number looks one digit short. Please check it and try again.

PART 1 · MODULE D

A complete resume sample and how it was edited

Every number must come from the client.

D1. Resume sample (fictional person, example figures)

Asha Verma · Pune · asha.verma@example.com · +91 90000 00000

Profile. Customer support and operations assistant with three years of experience in retail. Skilled in order handling, tracking sheets and clear customer communication.

Experience. Operations assistant, Green Basket Stores, 2023–2026

- Handled 40 customer calls a day and raised repeat orders from 22% to 31% over six months (example figures).
- Posted five times a week for the shop's Instagram and grew followers from 800 to 1,900 in four months (example figures).
- Matched 200 bank lines to invoices each month and cut unmatched items from 18 to 4 (example figures).

Skills. Excel, order management, customer chat, bank reconciliation basics.

Education. B.Com, example university, 2022.

D2. Before and after bullets

Before	After
Responsible for customer calls and sales.	Handled 40 customer calls a day and raised repeat orders from 22% to 31% over six months (example figures).
Worked on social media for the shop.	Posted five times a week for the shop's Instagram and grew followers from 800 to 1,900 in four months (example figures).
Helped with accounts.	Matched 200 bank lines to invoices each month and cut unmatched items from 18 to 4 (example figures).

HONESTY RULE

Never invent a job, qualification or number for a client. Use only figures the client can confirm. The figures above are examples, not real results.

DEPARTMENT 1 · DEVELOPMENT AND IT · PROFESSION 1

Resume writer

Profession 1 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

A resume writer turns a person's work history into a clear, honest document that helps them get interviews.

What professionals do every day

Interviews the client, collects facts and figures, drafts bullets, formats for applicant tracking systems and tailors versions to roles.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Job seekers rarely describe their results well. A resume writer finds the evidence and puts it first.

- Vague bullets with no results.
- Gaps and career changes that are hard to explain.
- Resumes that applicant systems cannot read.

Skills you need

- Interviewing
- Concise writing
- Formatting
- Honesty about facts

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
Google Docs	Drafting and comments	Free	Paid Workspace plans	docs.google.com
Grammarly	Grammar and clarity	Free tier	Paid plans	www.grammarly.com
Canva	Layouts	Free	Paid	www.canva.com

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Rewrite five bullets with action and result.
Intermediate	Build a one-page resume from notes.
Advanced	Tailor one resume to three job posts.

Projects by level

- Beginner: Rewrite bullets for a friend.
- Intermediate: Full resume for a career changer.

- Advanced: Resume, cover letter and LinkedIn set.

Client-ready portfolio project

A before-and-after resume pack for a fictional client: interview notes, a one-page resume and a tailored version.

Worked example

Worked example. 'Responsible for customer calls' becomes 'Handled 40 calls a day and raised repeat orders from 22% to 31%', using figures the client confirmed. See Module D for a full sample.

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Fix five bullets

Business problem: A client sends five weak bullets and some numbers.

Steps

1. Ask what changed because of each task.
2. Start each bullet with an action verb.
3. Add only numbers the client confirms.
4. Keep each bullet under 28 words.
5. Run the bullet checker.

Expected output: Five checked bullets.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

Each bullet states an action and a result. Where the client has no number, say what changed in plain words instead of inventing one. The Module A checker should return no issues.

Common mistakes

- Inventing numbers or titles.
- Using tables that applicant systems cannot read.
- Two-page resumes with no priority.
- Copying a template without editing.

Freelancing opportunities

- Resume packages for students and career changers.
- LinkedIn plus resume bundles.
- Briefs for 'resume writer', 'CV writing', 'cover letter'.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- www.linkedin.com/help/linkedin

DEPARTMENT 1 · DEVELOPMENT AND IT · PROFESSION 2

Copywriter

Profession 2 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

A copywriter writes words that help people decide: ads, landing pages, emails and product pages.

What professionals do every day

Researches the customer, writes headlines and body copy, tests variations and edits to the brand voice.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Clear copy raises the share of visitors who act. Weak copy wastes traffic.

- Pages that say nothing specific.
- Headlines that do not match the ad.
- Features listed without benefits.

Skills you need

- Customer research
- Headlines
- Structure
- Editing

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
Google Docs	Drafting and comments	Free	Paid Workspace plans	docs.google.com
Grammarly	Grammar and clarity	Free tier	Paid plans	www.grammarly.com
Hemingway Editor	Readability	Free web version	Paid app	hemingwayapp.com

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Rewrite a vague line into a specific one.
Intermediate	Write a full landing page.
Advanced	Write a launch email sequence.

Projects by level

- Beginner: Rewrite five product lines.

- Intermediate: Landing page for a small service.
- Advanced: Three-email launch sequence.

Client-ready portfolio project

A landing page for a fictional bookkeeping service: headline, three benefits, proof, an offer and a call to action.

Worked example

Worked example. 'High quality services at affordable prices' becomes 'Books closed by the 5th of every month. Fixed monthly price.' See Module C.

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Landing page draft

Business problem: A bookkeeping service needs a landing page.

Steps

1. Write the customer's problem in one sentence.
2. Write a headline and sub-line.
3. List three benefits with one proof point each.
4. Add one call to action.

Expected output: A one-screen page draft.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

The headline names the customer and the result. Each benefit has a proof point the client can show. One call to action avoids splitting attention.

Common mistakes

- Claims you cannot prove.
- Ignoring the target reader.
- Several calls to action.
- Copy written before the brief is clear.

Freelancing opportunities

- Landing pages and email sequences for small firms.
- Ad copy tests.
- Briefs for 'copywriter', 'sales copy', 'email copy'.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- hemingwayapp.com

DEPARTMENT 1 · DEVELOPMENT AND IT · PROFESSION 3

Creative writer

Profession 3 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

A creative writer produces stories, characters and imaginative text for books, brands and games.

What professionals do every day

Builds characters and scenes, drafts, revises and responds to feedback.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Brands and publishers use stories to be remembered.

- Flat characters.
- Stories without a clear change.
- Inconsistent voice.

Skills you need

- Voice
- Structure
- Revision

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
Google Docs	Drafting and comments	Free	Paid Workspace plans	docs.google.com
Scrivener	Long projects	Trial	Paid	www.literatureandlatte.com

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Write a 300-word scene.
Intermediate	Write a short story with a turning point.
Advanced	Build a brand story series.

Projects by level

- Beginner: One scene.
- Intermediate: Short story.
- Advanced: Series of three linked stories.

Client-ready portfolio project

A 1,000-word short story with a character sheet and a revision note.

Worked example

Worked example. A character who wants a shop to stay open faces a rent rise; the scene ends with a decision, not a lecture.

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Scene with a turning point

Business problem: A brand wants a short story about a first sale.

Steps

1. Pick a character and a want.
2. Put a problem in the way.
3. End with a choice.

Expected output: A 300-word scene.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

The scene shows a want, a block and a choice. It should be revised once to cut anything that does not move the story.

Common mistakes

- Explaining feelings instead of showing them.
- No change in the story.
- Copying a known character.
- Skipping revision.

Freelancing opportunities

- Brand stories and short fiction.
- Game or app narrative text.
- Briefs for 'creative writer', 'story', 'brand story'.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- www.gutenberg.org

DEPARTMENT 1 · DEVELOPMENT AND IT · PROFESSION 4

Ghostwriter

Profession 4 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

A ghostwriter writes in another person's voice, and the client is credited as the author. Agree ownership and credit in writing first.

What professionals do every day

Interviews the client, captures their voice, drafts posts, articles or a book and revises with them.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Experts have ideas but little time to write. A ghostwriter turns an interview into publishable text.

- Writing that does not sound like the client.
- Missed deadlines.
- Unclear ownership.

Skills you need

- Interviewing
- Voice matching
- Confidentiality

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
Google Docs	Drafting and comments	Free	Paid Workspace plans	docs.google.com
Otter	Interview transcripts	Free tier	Paid	otter.ai

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Write a 300-word post from notes.
Intermediate	Write a full article from an interview.
Advanced	Write a series for one client.

Projects by level

- Beginner: Post from notes.
- Intermediate: Article from an interview.
- Advanced: Monthly series.

Client-ready portfolio project

A ghostwritten article from a fictional consultant's interview, with a voice guide.

Worked example

Worked example. The client says 'we ship late because we promise too much'; the article opens with that sentence in the client's own words.

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Voice guide

Business problem: A client sends three past posts.

Steps

1. List sentence length and favourite words.
2. Note what they never say.
3. Write a draft that follows the guide.

Expected output: A one-page voice guide and a draft.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

The guide notes short sentences, plain words and no jargon. The draft follows it and the client confirms every fact.

Common mistakes

- Inventing quotes or experience.
- No written agreement on credit and ownership.
- Missing the voice.
- Sharing drafts outside the agreement.

Freelancing opportunities

- Ghostwriting for founders and coaches.
- Monthly article series.
- Briefs for 'ghostwriter', 'blog writer'.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- otter.ai

DEPARTMENT 1 · DEVELOPMENT AND IT · PROFESSION 5

Technical writer

Profession 5 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

A technical writer explains products so users can complete tasks: guides, API documents and help articles.

What professionals do every day

Interviews engineers, tests the steps, writes tasks in order and keeps documents current.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Clear documents cut support tickets and training time.

- Steps that do not work.
- Jargon with no explanation.
- Documents that are out of date.

Skills you need

- Task analysis
- Clarity
- Testing steps
- Version control

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
Markdown guide	Plain-text docs	Free	Free	www.markdownguide.org
Docusaurus	Docs sites	Free	Free	docusaurus.io
Google Docs	Drafting and comments	Free	Paid Workspace plans	docs.google.com

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Write a ten-step task.
Intermediate	Write a README.
Advanced	Build a small help site.

Projects by level

- Beginner: How-to article.
- Intermediate: README and quick start.
- Advanced: Help site with search.

Client-ready portfolio project

A quick-start guide for a fictional app, tested by someone who has never used it.

Worked example

Worked example. 'Click Export' becomes 'In the top menu, choose File, then Export, then CSV. The file appears in Downloads.'

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Tested how-to

Business problem: A new app needs a sign-up guide.

Steps

1. List the steps while doing them.
2. Write one action per step.
3. Give the expected result of each step.
4. Ask a new user to follow it.

Expected output: A tested guide.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

The tester shows where steps are missing. The guide is corrected and each step names a visible result.

Common mistakes

- Skipping testing.
- Writing for experts only.
- Screenshots without text.
- No version notes.

Freelancing opportunities

- Help documents for software firms.
- README and API guides.
- Briefs for 'technical writer', 'documentation'.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- developers.google.com/tech-writing

DEPARTMENT 1 · DEVELOPMENT AND IT · PROFESSION 6

Scriptwriter

Profession 6 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

A scriptwriter writes the words and structure for video, audio and presentations.

What professionals do every day

Writes scenes and narration, times them, and revises with the producer.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Good scripts save filming time.

- Scripts longer than the video.
- Visuals not matched to words.
- No clear hook.

Skills you need

- Structure
- Timing
- Dialogue

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
Google Docs	Drafting and comments	Free	Paid Workspace plans	docs.google.com
Celtx	Script formatting	Free tier	Paid	www.celtx.com

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Write a 60-second script.
Intermediate	Write a two-column script.
Advanced	Write a series outline.

Projects by level

- Beginner: 60-second ad.
- Intermediate: Explainer script.
- Advanced: Course video series.

Client-ready portfolio project

A 90-second explainer script in two columns (visual, words).

Worked example

Worked example. About 130 spoken words equal one minute at an easy pace; the script is trimmed to fit.

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Time a script

Business problem: A video must be 60 seconds.

Steps

1. Write the script.
2. Count the words.
3. Cut to about 130 words.
4. Read it aloud with a timer.

Expected output: A 60-second script.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

At an easy pace, 130 words run about a minute. If the read-aloud runs long, cut words until it fits.

Common mistakes

- Writing for the page, not the ear.
- No visuals noted.
- Ignoring timing.
- Long first sentence.

Freelancing opportunities

- Explainer and ad scripts.
- Course video scripts.
- Briefs for 'scriptwriter', 'video script'.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- www.celtx.com

Grant writer

Profession 7 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

A grant writer prepares funding applications for non-profits, researchers and community groups.

What professionals do every day

Reads the funder's rules, collects facts, writes the need, plan and budget, and checks every requirement.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Funding is competitive and rules are strict. A missed requirement can end an application.

- Missing requirements.
- Budget that does not match the plan.
- Weak evidence of need.

Skills you need

- Research
- Budget alignment
- Precision

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
Google Docs	Drafting and comments	Free	Paid Workspace plans	docs.google.com
Candid	Funder search	Free tier	Paid	candid.org

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Summarise a funder's rules.
Intermediate	Draft a need statement.
Advanced	Complete a small application.

Projects by level

- Beginner: Funder summary.
- Intermediate: Need statement.
- Advanced: Full small application.

Client-ready portfolio project

A fictional small grant application with a requirement checklist and a budget table.

Worked example

Worked example. A checklist marks each funder rule with where it is met in the draft.

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Requirement checklist

Business problem: A funder requires a 500-word need statement, a budget and two letters.

Steps

1. List every rule.
2. Mark where each is met.
3. Fix gaps before writing the rest.

Expected output: A completed checklist.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

The checklist makes missing items visible before the deadline. The budget total must equal the sum of the lines.

Common mistakes

- Ignoring word limits.
- Unsupported claims.
- Budget errors.
- Missing the deadline.

Freelancing opportunities

- Grant applications for small non-profits.
- Funder research.
- Briefs for 'grant writer', 'proposal writer'. Never promise success.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- candid.org

DEPARTMENT 1 · DEVELOPMENT AND IT · PROFESSION 8

Editor

Profession 8 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

An editor improves structure, clarity and consistency in a manuscript or document.

What professionals do every day

Reads for structure, edits sentences, queries the author and keeps a style sheet.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Authors cannot always see their own gaps.

- Muddled structure.
- Inconsistent terms.
- Repetition.

Skills you need

- Structural editing
- Line editing
- Style sheets

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
Microsoft Word	Track changes	Trial	Paid	www.microsoft.com/microsoft-365/word
Google Docs	Drafting and comments	Free	Paid Workspace plans	docs.google.com

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Edit one page with comments.
Intermediate	Edit a chapter.
Advanced	Edit a report and keep a style sheet.

Projects by level

- Beginner: One page.
- Intermediate: One chapter.
- Advanced: Full document.

Client-ready portfolio project

An edited chapter with tracked changes and a style sheet for a fictional author.

Worked example

Worked example. A style sheet records that 'e-mail' is spelled 'email' throughout.

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Style sheet

Business problem: An author uses 'email', 'e-mail' and 'Email'.

Steps

1. Choose one form.
2. Record it in the style sheet.
3. Apply it throughout.

Expected output: A style sheet and a consistent chapter.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

One recorded rule is applied everywhere. Search for the other forms to make sure none remain.

Common mistakes

- Rewriting instead of editing.
- Not explaining changes.
- Changing meaning.
- No style sheet.

Freelancing opportunities

- Editing for authors and businesses.
- Report editing.
- Briefs for 'editor', 'line editing'.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- www.chicagomanualofstyle.org

Proofreader

Profession 9 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

A proofreader finds spelling, grammar, punctuation and layout errors in the final copy.

What professionals do every day

Checks text against the style sheet, marks errors and does not rewrite.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Small errors damage trust.

- Typos in launch material.
- Inconsistent numbers.
- Wrong names.

Skills you need

- Attention to detail
- Style rules
- Marks

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
Grammarly	Grammar and clarity	Free tier	Paid plans	www.grammarly.com
Google Docs	Drafting and comments	Free	Paid Workspace plans	docs.google.com
PerfectIt	Consistency checks	Trial	Paid	intelligentediting.com

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Proof one page.
Intermediate	Proof ten pages.
Advanced	Proof a full document.

Projects by level

- Beginner: One page.
- Intermediate: Ten pages.
- Advanced: Book or report.

Client-ready portfolio project

A proofread sample with a log of errors found and the rule for each.

Worked example

Worked example. 'Their going to the store' becomes 'They're going to the store'.

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Error log

Business problem: A page has twelve known errors.

Steps

1. Read once for meaning.
2. Read again slowly.
3. Log each error and fix.

Expected output: An error log.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

Count the errors found against the known twelve. The log helps the author see patterns.

Common mistakes

- Rewriting style.
- Proofing on screen only.
- Missing names and numbers.
- Not reading backwards for typos.

Freelancing opportunities

- Proofreading for books and brochures.
- Final checks before print.
- Briefs for 'proofreader'.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- intelligentediting.com

SEO writer

Profession 10 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

An SEO writer creates content that answers what people search for and is easy to read.

What professionals do every day

Researches a topic and questions, writes a useful page and structures headings.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Pages that answer questions can attract steady visitors. Results are never guaranteed.

- Keyword stuffing.
- Thin pages.
- Mismatch to search intent.

Skills you need

- Search intent
- Structure
- Plain language

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
Google Search Console	Search performance	Free	Free	search.google.com/search-console
Google Keyword Planner	Keyword ideas	Free account	Free	ads.google.com/home/tools/keyword-planner/
Google Docs	Drafting and comments	Free	Paid Workspace plans	docs.google.com

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Find five questions for a topic.
Intermediate	Write a 1,000-word guide.
Advanced	Write a topic cluster.

Projects by level

- Beginner: Outline.

- Intermediate: Full guide.
- Advanced: Cluster of five pages.

Client-ready portfolio project

A 1,000-word guide with title, headings, FAQ and meta description for a fictional shop.

Worked example

Worked example. The page answers 'how to choose a ceiling fan' with clear headings and a short table.

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Search intent map

Business problem: A shop wants traffic for 'ceiling fan'.

Steps

1. List five questions people ask.
2. Match each to a heading.
3. Write a 155-character description.

Expected output: An outline and description.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

Each heading answers one question. The description states what the reader learns.

Common mistakes

- Repeating keywords.
- Copying competitors.
- Promising rankings.
- Ignoring updates in search rules.

Freelancing opportunities

- Blog and product-page content.
- Topic clusters.
- Briefs for 'SEO writer'. Never guarantee rankings.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- developers.google.com/search/docs

DEPARTMENT 1 · DEVELOPMENT AND IT · PROFESSION 11

UX writer

Profession 11 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

A UX writer writes the words inside products: buttons, messages and onboarding.

What professionals do every day

Writes short text, tests it with users and keeps a voice guide.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Clear microcopy reduces mistakes and support requests.

- Error messages that blame users.
- Unclear buttons.
- Inconsistent terms.

Skills you need

- Brevity
- Empathy
- Consistency

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
Figma	Design files	Free tier	Paid	www.figma.com
Google Docs	Drafting and comments	Free	Paid Workspace plans	docs.google.com

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Rewrite five messages.
Intermediate	Write an onboarding flow.
Advanced	Create a content style guide.

Projects by level

- Beginner: Five messages.
- Intermediate: Onboarding.
- Advanced: Style guide.

Client-ready portfolio project

A rewrite of ten messages and a one-page voice guide for a fictional app.

Worked example

Worked example. 'Error 402: invalid input.' becomes 'That card number looks one digit short. Please check it and try again.'

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Fix an error message

Business problem: A payment form shows 'Error 402'.

Steps

1. Say what happened.
2. Say what to do.
3. Keep it under 20 words.

Expected output: A rewritten message.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

The message states the problem and the next action without blame.

Common mistakes

- Jargon.
- Long labels.
- Inconsistent button names.
- Blaming the user.

Freelancing opportunities

- Product microcopy for apps.
- Onboarding text.
- Briefs for 'UX writer', 'microcopy'.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- www.figma.com

DEPARTMENT 1 · DEVELOPMENT AND IT · PROFESSION 12

Newsletter writer

Profession 12 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

A newsletter writer builds a regular email that readers want to open.

What professionals do every day

Plans an issue, writes, edits, and sends on a schedule.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Regular email keeps an audience.

- No consistent schedule.
- Low open rates.
- Content with no point.

Skills you need

- Subject lines
- Series planning
- Consistency

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
Substack	Newsletter platform	Free	Fees on paid	substack.com
Mailchimp	Email platform	Free tier	Paid	mailchimp.com

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Write one issue.
Intermediate	Plan four issues.
Advanced	Run a monthly newsletter.

Projects by level

- Beginner: One issue.
- Intermediate: Four-week plan.
- Advanced: Monthly newsletter.

Client-ready portfolio project

A four-issue plan and one finished issue for a fictional shop.

Worked example

Worked example. Each issue has one idea, one story and one action.

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Subject lines

Business problem: An issue is about late payments.

Steps

1. Write five subject lines.
2. Choose one that is specific.
3. Avoid false urgency.

Expected output: Five lines and one chosen.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

The best line names a specific benefit, such as 'Three invoice mistakes that delay your payment'.

Common mistakes

- Too many topics.
- Misleading subject lines.
- Missing the unsubscribe link.
- No schedule.

Freelancing opportunities

- Newsletter writing for creators and firms.
- Content calendars.
- Briefs for 'newsletter writer'. Follow email consent rules.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- mailchimp.com/resources

LinkedIn content writer

Profession 13 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

A LinkedIn writer helps professionals share useful posts on LinkedIn.

What professionals do every day

Interviews the client, writes posts, plans a weekly calendar and edits profile text.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Professionals gain trust by sharing real experience.

- Posts that say nothing.
- Irregular posting.
- Profiles that do not match the posts.

Skills you need

- Hooks
- Short writing
- Voice

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
LinkedIn	Posting platform	Free	Premium	www.linkedin.com
Google Docs	Drafting and comments	Free	Paid Workspace plans	docs.google.com

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Write three posts.
Intermediate	Plan a four-week calendar.
Advanced	Rewrite a profile.

Projects by level

- Beginner: Posts.
- Intermediate: Calendar.
- Advanced: Profile and posts set.

Client-ready portfolio project

A four-week calendar with twelve drafted posts for a fictional consultant.

Worked example

Worked example. A post starts with a real number from the client's work and one lesson.

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

One post

Business problem: A consultant saved a client two hours a week.

Steps

1. Open with the result.
2. Explain how.
3. End with one lesson.

Expected output: A 150-word post.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

The result comes first, the method second, the lesson last. The client confirms every figure.

Common mistakes

- Fake stories.
- Engagement tricks.
- No client approval.
- Copying other creators.

Freelancing opportunities

- Post packages for professionals.
- Profile rewrites.
- Briefs for 'LinkedIn content'.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- www.linkedin.com/help/linkedin

DEPARTMENT 1 · DEVELOPMENT AND IT · PROFESSION 14

Case study writer

Profession 14 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

A case study writer turns a customer's success into a clear story with facts.

What professionals do every day

Interviews the customer, gets approval for numbers and writes problem, solution and result.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Buyers trust evidence from similar customers.

- Results without numbers.
- No customer approval.
- Story that reads like an ad.

Skills you need

- Interviewing
- Structure
- Evidence

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
Google Docs	Drafting and comments	Free	Paid Workspace plans	docs.google.com
Otter	Transcripts	Free tier	Paid	otter.ai

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Outline a case study.
Intermediate	Write one with approved numbers.
Advanced	Write a series.

Projects by level

- Beginner: Outline.
- Intermediate: Full study.
- Advanced: Series of three.

Client-ready portfolio project

A two-page case study for a fictional firm, with approved example figures.

Worked example

Worked example. Problem: late invoices. Solution: reminder emails. Result: average payment time down from 45 to 30 days (example figures).

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Problem, solution, result

Business problem: A firm cut payment time.

Steps

1. State the problem.
2. Describe what was done.
3. Give the approved result.

Expected output: A one-page case study.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

The case study gives numbers the customer approved, and says what was done in plain steps.

Common mistakes

- Unapproved numbers.
- Hiding the problem.
- Too much praise.
- No customer quote.

Freelancing opportunities

- Case studies for B2B firms.
- Customer story series.
- Briefs for 'case study writer'.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- www.hubspot.com

DEPARTMENT 1 · DEVELOPMENT AND IT · PROFESSION 15

AI content editor

Profession 15 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

An AI content editor reviews, corrects and improves AI-drafted text so it is accurate, specific and on brand.

What professionals do every day

Checks facts, removes generic text, fixes tone and records changes.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

AI drafts are fast but can contain invented facts and generic phrases.

- Invented facts.
- Generic openings.
- Tone mismatch.

Skills you need

- Fact checking
- Editing
- Prompting

Tools (free and paid)

Tool	What it is for	Free option	Paid option	Official link (not checked live)
Google Docs	Drafting and comments	Free	Paid Workspace plans	docs.google.com
Grammarly	Grammar and clarity	Free tier	Paid plans	www.grammarly.com
ChatGPT	Drafting assistant	Free tier	Paid	chatgpt.com
Claude	Drafting assistant	Free tier	Paid	claude.ai

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Edit a 300-word draft.
Intermediate	Edit a 1,000-word article with a fact log.
Advanced	Build a team checklist.

Projects by level

- Beginner: Short edit.
- Intermediate: Article with fact log.

- Advanced: Checklist.

Client-ready portfolio project

An AI-drafted article edited with a fact log and a change note.

Worked example

Worked example. The draft says 'studies show 90 percent'. The editor cannot find the source, so the claim is removed.

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Fact log

Business problem: An AI draft contains eight claims.

Steps

1. List the claims.
2. Check each against a source.
3. Remove or fix unsupported ones.

Expected output: A fact log.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

Each claim has a source or is removed. The change note explains each edit.

Common mistakes

- Trusting the draft.
- Leaving generic phrases.
- Pasting confidential material into a tool.
- Not recording changes.

Freelancing opportunities

- AI content review for agencies and blogs.
- Fact checking.
- Briefs for 'AI content editor'.

Learning resources

LEARNING RESOURCES (VERIFY BEFORE USE)

- www.anthropic.com