DEPARTMENT 1 · DEVELOPMENT AND IT · PROFESSION 5

Email marketer

Profession 5 of 10 in Development and IT.

What the profession means

An email marketer builds lists, writes campaigns and automated sequences, segments audiences and measures results, with consent at every step.

What professionals do every day

Grows opt-in lists, writes subject lines and copy, builds welcome and abandoned-cart flows, schedules newsletters and analyses opens, clicks and sales.

Why businesses hire them, and what problems they solve

Email has high return for many businesses when people have opted in. A good sequence turns interest into a first purchase.

- Lists bought or built without consent.
- Emails with weak subject lines and no clear action.
- Flows that send the wrong message at the wrong time.

Skills you need

- Consent and data protection.
- Segmentation.
- Copywriting for email (AIDA, PAS).
- Automation flows.
- Deliverability and performance analysis.

Learning sequence: beginner, intermediate, advanced

Level	What you can do when you finish
Beginner	Write three subject lines and test two.
Intermediate	Build a three-email welcome sequence.
Advanced	Clean a list: remove invalid addresses and unsubscribes.

Projects by level

- Beginner: Newsletter for a clinic.
- Intermediate: Abandoned-cart flow for a shop.
- Advanced: Course launch sequence.

Client-ready portfolio project

A welcome sequence of three emails for a fictional course provider, with segmentation, consent wording and one A/B test plan.

Worked example

Worked example. A subject line 'Your free checklist is here' tested against 'Three mistakes to avoid this month': the test measures opens, and the winner is used for the next send.

Assignment with full solution

ASSIGNMENT

Welcome sequence with consent

Business problem: A course provider needs a three-email welcome sequence for new subscribers.

Steps

1. Write the consent sentence shown at sign-up.
2. Write three emails: welcome with the free resource, a useful tip, an offer.
3. Set delays of 0, 2 and 5 days.
4. Add an unsubscribe link and a sender name the reader recognises.

Expected output: Three emails with subject lines, delays and consent text.

SOLUTION (ANSWER KEY)

The sequence gives value before the offer. The consent sentence says what the person signed up for. The unsubscribe link is required in every email.

Common mistakes

- Buying lists.
- Sending without unsubscribe links.
- Emailing too often.
- Never cleaning the list.

Freelancing opportunities

- Email sequences for course and product launches.
- Monthly newsletter services.
- Briefs for 'email marketing', 'Mailchimp', 'Klaviyo'.
